THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

This is the time of year when one begins to think of winter sunshine in the southwest—Cliff-dwellings, Indian villages, dude ranches, desert resorts, Pacific surf, California Missions; Santa Fe, Tucson, Phoenix, Palm Springs, Riverside, San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara. I have made many trips to this region and can give information that will prove useful.

Tickets by train, plane or steamer, at the exact rates charged by the railroads, airlines and steamship lines.

THE ANDOVER

ON behalf of the ministers of Andover, I should like to remind the people of our community of the real purpose of Thanksgiving Day. As we all know, the first Thanksgiving was held in New England after the harvest of 1621, in accordance with the proclamation of Governor Bradford setting aside a day for thanksgiving and prayer.

Like our New England forefathers, we too have much to be thankful for in this year 1940. For far greater security and prosperity than they ever enjoyed, for continued peace in a warring world, for the freedom, opportunity and brotherhood of the democratic way of life which we have inherited from them, we ought to maintain this sacred tradition by coming together in services of prayer and thanksgiving to the Giver of all good gifts.

Freedom of worship, for which the Pilgrims and Puritans came to the new world, is the foundation of the democratic way of life, and must be maintained if democracy is to survive. Freedom of worship did not mean to our ancestors freedom not to worship, as unfortunately it seems to mean to so many of us, but freedom to worship in accordance with one's sincere convictions. If we really believe in the American way of life, let us give evidence of that belief on Thanksgiving Day, not only by cheering our football team, not only by eating heartily of turkey and "all the fixin's" with family and friends, but by observing the real purpose of the Day, the grateful worship of God in the company of our fellow Americans.

DONALD H. SAVAGE, Chairman,
Andover Ministers

MRS. HATTON AND MR. LIPPMANN TAKING ACADEMY COURSES

Hundreds of housewives, teachers, lawyers, doctors, bookkeepers, stenographers, executives, skilled and unskilled laborers, salesmen, farmers, students—some of them with college education, some with vocational school, high school, prep school, graduate school or grammar school education—some of them from Andover, some from Lawrence, some from North Andover, Methuen, Haverhill, Lowell—in fact just about everybody from everywhere around here is just a little puzzled at present. They're not quite sure whether they'll take Whit Clark's course on Great Symphonies, Jack Barss's course on how to make their heating system, gas stove, and radio work best, or the course given by a quartet of academy English instructors on A Workshop in English.

It's the only difficult thing about the Phillips Academy adult education courses: picking out which ones you most want to take. But take one or two or possibly three you probably will, for pretty nearly everybody does these days—or these winter nights. Just a dream eight years ago in the mind of Alan Blackmer of the academy faculty, the courses today are an accepted, indispensable part of Andover life, and of the life of the neighboring communities, too. Come what may, freezing weather, snowing weather, the trek to Andover Hill goes on without fail.

Back in 1935 Al Blackmer decided to put his plan into operation and with the help of Gray Baldwin and other colleagues he launched forth on the project. When the first season ended, he could well have felt proud, for 252 persons had taken advantage of the courses. In 1939 the number of persons had better than doubled, and this past winter the figure was three times what it was the first year! Not by extra plugging has this great change been made; rather it has gone along on its own momentum, for there have been many Mrs. Such-and-suches who have told many Mrs. So-and-soes about how really valuable the courses are, what a good time you have, and how very nice that Professor Smith is.

In half a dozen years 1652 persons have taken courses on the Hill. Of these, 26 have taken courses for all six years. Of the 728 in 1940 298 had formerly taken courses.

Those are the figures the Academy likes to talk about. Somehow—we'd say it's modesty, only we know very well that they've had so much fun doing it that they've never given much thought to their own contribution—those in charge of the courses have not published anything very lengthy about another phase. The academy likes to talk about the adult students' good attendance record; they could talk just as enthusiastically about the teachers' splendid attendance record. Even more enthusiastically, as a matter of fact, because the teachers give—they don't get. Some of them teaching the courses this year taught the first year, some have taught all the years. And what do they get for salary? Nothing but the pleasure of doing it.

There's no money available for salaries anyway. The students pay little—what the teachers want them to pay most of all is attention. There is a general registration fee of two dollars per person, plus one dollar for each course selected, and if you're one of a family taking the courses, the family pays three dollars and one dollar per course. Furthermore if you register before December 9, one dollar may be deducted from the total fee. So you can see there's not much money left for establishing professorships out of that.

They use some of this money for a few expenses, printing, etc. But mostly they don't use the money, they let somebody else do that. Last year for instance they sent $300 over to the Lawrence General hospital. The Memorial Hall Library received $200 and part of this is now used to help provide the Book Bus which goes around town on Fridays. The Boston Center of Adult Education was given $100 to help promote its work, and the Andover Male Choir received $50. A gift of $200 was given the local schools to be administered by Superintendent Sherman to facilitate adjustments of needy students to life and school situations. That was last year. Other years the money has gone to the Andover Red Cross, the Andover Junior High, the Guild, the Andover Nursing Committee, the Stevens Memorial Library, the Lawrence Public Library, the Lawrence public schools, the Andover patrol boys, the Lawrence Boys' club and the Andover Boy Scouts. In all a total of $2571.84 has been given by the Study Groups for educational and social work. It's an endless chain: they take the money you pay to help educate yourself and use it to allow somebody else to help educate himself.

This year the courses seem more interesting and certainly cover a wider variety than ever before. They range all the way from Jack Barss's afore-mentioned household chats to a course on Great Books which starts out with a talk by Paul MacKendrick on Thucydides' History of the Peloponnesian War. Wilbur J. Bender is giving a course on "Program for Democracy" which is probably one of the best, and certainly the most pressingly interesting, of any of the courses. To discuss "The Living Constitution"—that's politically and not medically speaking—the academy brought in Henry W. Bragdon from Brooks school who will run over the history of the Constitution to lay a foundation for a study of the Constitution in relation to today's needs.

Dirk van der Stucken usually draws the crowds for his talks on current events—he's been giving them every year that we can remember. But that's one course that is never the same year after year, and it's one course that everybody is pretty keenly interested in.

While Dirk takes care of the current situation single-handed, they have assigned to five faculty members the task of digging up the backgrounds of modern civilization in the 17th century. Alston Chase, Carl Platteicher, Leonard James, Jim Grew and Bart Hayes will treat this subject from their various viewpoints. Doug Byers also goes back into antiquity for a study of America Before Columbus. More local is the course on the History of Andover; more in detail the program is found in another column.

Dr. Chase also pops up in another course: Ethics Past and Present. He'll trace the principal ethical (Continued on Page 15)

Past Commander Coleman, newly chosen county chairman of the National Defense committee, will report on the committee meeting in Worcester, November 20. Oyster stew supper to be served after business meeting.

THE FRONT COVER

So intent on sewing, through the Red Cross, for war's destitute that they didn't have time to look at the camera are Mrs. Albert Moore, Miss Julia Twichell, Miss Anna Kuhn, Mrs. Mitchell Johnson, Mrs. Charles Gabeler and Mrs. Charles McDuffie. Typical are they of several groups which meet at the high school weekly.

FOOD SALE

The Junior Woman's Union of the West church will hold a Food Sale in W. R. Hill's Hardware store on Friday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00. Mrs. Clayton Northey is chairman.

Also on Friday but in the vacant store in the Aberdeen apartments on North Main street, a bakery sale will be held for the benefit of the British War Relief department of the Shawsheen Woman's club. Proceeds are for the Federation Rolling Kitchen. Mrs. Arthur Steinert is in charge.

P. H. S. ALUMNI COMMITTEE. Important meeting at the high school, Monday evening, at 7:30.

INTERSTATE TRADE BARRIERS

It was with great interest that the members of the League of Women Voters listened to Harold P. Smith of the United States Department of Commerce, last Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Frederick Butler of Lowell street. Speaking on the problems of Interstate Trade Barriers, he compared the state and county trade walls with the barriers raised by the nations of the world, showing their similarity. He pointed out that they are costly to the consumer and to the government and dangerous to our democratic system.

Mr. Smith urged the League women to be alert to the actions of the general court to see that Massachusetts does not follow the practices of neighboring states. An interesting question period followed the lecture.

Tea was served by Mrs. Edwin Lewis, chairman; Mrs. Eugene Bernardin, Mrs. Samuel Resnik, Mrs. Everett Collins and Mrs. Harold Rutter. Mrs. Arthur Taft and Mrs. Harold King poured.

IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Andover Village Improvement society was held November 18, at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Abbott. Reports of the clerk and treasurer were read and accepted, and the following members were elected to

Parade Held— For Future Draftees

It was a solemn procession that left the town hall Monday morning and wended its way down Essex street to the Railroad station. Headed by the police, with Legionnaires and V. F. W. members escorting Andover's first two draftees to receive the call for service, and the rear brought up by the selectmen and the draft board, the short parade was the focus of attention as the Junior Legion drum corps provided the martial music.

And it was a solemn affair at the station, too. There were some grins, particularly from the two draftees, but there were some other pretty sober expressions, too. Parents were there—sisters were there—friends were there. Some of them grinned, too—but it was the grin that you knew was summoned to the surface with the determination that said: "I can at least do my part by smiling."

Then the train pulled in. Farewells had been said, and with a last brief—very brief, handshake with those who mattered most, Chuck Armitage and Eddie McCabe clambered up the steps, waving good-bye to the large crowd that had assembled, while hats were doffed as the Junior Legionnaires—who we hope may never have to clamber up steps under similar conditions—played "America." The "Sweet Land of Liberty" had found it necessary to ask these boys to give up their liberty for one year—because our liberty seems to be threatened.

Monday night the two boys came back. They had gone to Boston ready to do their bit, but army physicians had found that their spirit was willing, but their physical condition didn't measure up to what the army wants for the first batch. So back they had to come.

Was all the fanfare for nothing? Did Andover wake up early Monday morning just to say "Good-bye" to two young men only to be able to say "Hello" the same night? Did we get those youngsters out to play "My Country 'Tis of Thee" for nothing? Did all the Legionnaires and V. F. W. members march again without any reason?

That's not the theory behind it. Tomorrow morning Eugene Theroux of Union street and Jim Dawe of North Andover will go to the station and board a train. There'll be no ceremony. Sam Rockwell will be on hand to give them their credentials and chances are their relatives will be there to say "Good-bye." But there'll be no parade, no band—and possibly Gene and Jim will be accepted.

But the parade was not for Charlie and Eddie—they were not two distinct personalities to the men and youngsters who marched. They were representatives of our boys, of all the 89 boys from this district who will answer the call during this coming year. They went first, because they volunteered first. The parade was for all the boys yet to go, and that's why that ceremony holds a very important place in Andover history.

David Brown of 25 Essex street has joined the United States Navy and is at the Newport Training Station. Probably off for Panama are James Thompson of Highland road and John McDonald, Jr., of Chestnut street, who have enlisted in the army.

"ARMY FLASH" The Bombers Are Coming Towards Andover

"ARMY FLASH!" The telephone operator has received a call from Arthur Jenkins' house on Ballardvale road. It's a signal she's been taught to watch for, a signal that would strike terror to the hearts of Andover people. Immediately the operator connects the caller without delay over long distance lines to the Army Information Center.

There are other calls coming in to the Center from stations some four miles apart. The observers report that they have sighted enemy planes heading for Lawrence, an industrial center of importance. All the reports are plotted at the center, and from these reports the direction, course and speed of the enemy formation can be determined, its probable objectives determined and warned, all defense elements put on the alert, and the defending pursuit directed to the proper point for making the interception and the attack.

Andover will have one of the 650 posts in this area, and the local Legion has chosen a site at the junction of Ballardvale and Sunset Rock roads, with the Jenkins house as headquarters. It takes from 10 to 20 observers to man each post, and they'll all be volunteers.

The first period of active operation is scheduled by the Air Defense Command for the middle of January. Tonight the Legion members will talk about it, and an open meeting of members and other citizens will be held in the near future to allow everyone an opportunity to join in this preparation.

Tommy's Winning

A lot of Andover people have been praying since early yesterday morning, praying for a little thirteen-year-old fellow lying over at the Lawrence General hospital. Tommy Campbell of 100 Abbot street was hurled out of a car at the corner of Abbot and Phillips streets when it was in a collision with another car. Taken to the hospital it was found that he had among other injuries, a depressed fracture of the skull.

The noon report from the hospital Thursday told that the prayers were being answered. Tommy was fighting—fighting hard. Tommy apparently was winning his fight.

AID FOR DRAFTEES IN ANSWERING QUESTIONS

Have you received your draft questionnaire yet? Fifty were sent out last Friday and they'll be sent out in groups of 50 at intervals until the whole registration list is covered. If you find difficulty in answering the questions, the advisory board will be glad to help you, and for this purpose they will meet from 7 to 9 at the town house on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings until further notice.

On the board are James Eastham, Charles C. Kimball and Roy E. Hardy, with more to be added.

Guild members are looking forward to their annual Barn dance tomorrow night which is the first special activity of the season. To make it extra-special, the Royal Mountaineers have been hired to play for the dancing and musical specialties. Refreshments will be served.

FOOTBALL GAMES ENTERTAIN SOCIETIES

Without even using a football, Harvard and Yale battled it out to a draw in a unique four-team gridiron classic at the Christ church Monday evening. The local Girls' Friendly society was entertaining several Lawrence societies at a Game Night and the pigskin atmosphere was intensified by the colored streamers arranged to resemble a football field.

Each guest was given a pennant with her name on it for identification which allied them with Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth or Harvard in a four-cornered competition.

Mad Hatters Mount Hobbies For A Long, Long Ride

The Hatters? What a family! Mad as March Hares! Crazy as balloons! Dizzy as pinwheels! Dippier than the Big Dipper! And nuttier than a Christmas fruit cake! In fact, they're all nuts! Margaret Hatter, the mother, is nuts about dramatics. Joe Hatter, the father, is nuts about fishing. Gigi, the daughter, is nuts about athletics. Funny, their son, is nuts about photography and Angelica, that's the housekeeper, is just plain N-U-T-S!

That's what they say about them and that's what we saw, Tuesday afternoon, when we sneaked into a rehearsal of Act II, where, a nice inclusive way of saying it would be, pandemonium reigned, except that the mad Hatters reigned and pandemonium was having a hard time to be heard above the scuffle.

Pandemonium, to be brief, was being outpandied. It was a washout when it came up against a whole family full of witty half-wits.

Director Stevens was having a difficult time trying to maintain his own sanity when Gigi Hatter (Margaret Kidd) and Muggie Mullen (Walter Gailey) were giving the cues for the housekeeper's entrance and—no housekeeper. The cue was repeated. Still no housekeeper. When the housekeeper didn't appear after the cue had been repeated a third time, louder and incidentally funnier, an investigation was made. The housekeeper (Frances Surette) had broken her shoe buckle. No shoes—no graceful entrance. In two minutes the perverse shoe had been rushed to the cobbler's, mended and safely restored to Angelica's foot. Once more the cue was repeated and this time—presto, the housekeeper entered. She was, indeed, nuts, but well worth waiting for.

Cameraman Bunny Hatter (William Beaulieu) appeared to be more of a monkey than a nut as he climbed up and down, backwards and forwards, a high step ladder, the better to take his candid camera pictures. He seemed particularly agile in his climbing when Nancy Hayward (Isabelle Johnson) came into his range of vision. Figuratively, he fell for her, and literally, almost.

When the grand scene was rehearsed, in which all the Hatters were on the stage at once cultivating their hobbies, the nuts really came out of their shells. Probably because there were so many cracks.

The title was well chosen for Kurtz Gordon's riotous comedy and the senior class of Punchard are living up to its significance.

Recognize these boy scouts so intent upon building a safe bridge in as short a time as possible? They are not hurrying so that they can cross to the other side but because they want to prove to the other local scouts present at the Scoutoree in the Auditorium last Thursday night that they are about the quickest bridge-builders that ever built a bridge.

Class Marks 25th Anniversary

Tomorrow the Margaret Slattery class will observe its twenty-fifth birthday. It began, way back in 1915, as a Sunday school class under the direction of Miss Jean Dundas who secured the leadership of Miss Jennie Hinchcliffe for the new group. The first meeting was held November 15, 1915, when the class was named after Margaret Slattery, personal friend of Miss Hinchcliffe and well-known author and lecturer.

The religious foundation of the class has persisted and strengthened through the quarter century under the adopted motto "Trust in God." During the busy years of the World War, contributions of sewing and knitting from the class were many and one of the major accomplishments was an autographed quilt which brought forth considerable funds for Red Cross work. In 1918 members contributed for the purchase of a Liberty bond. All that summer, Miss Hinchcliffe held devotional meetings at her home on Sunday afternoons, but in the fall meetings had to be canceled because of a spreading influenza epidemic.

The year 1919 had its compensations when the gay Welcome Home parade celebrated the return of local soldiers. Class members enthusiastically joined in this too and decorated a colorful float filled with Salvation Army lasses and Red Cross nurses.

Ten years later, Miss Hinchcliffe relinquished teaching and was succeeded for a short time by Mrs. E. Taber McFarlin and then by Mrs. Dana Clark, present class teacher.

All members, present and past, are invited to attend the birthday observance at the Free church Friday evening beginning with a banquet at 6:30. Present class officers and past presidents will be in the receiving line, with Miss Grace Lake, present president, representing four. Elected the third president of the class when elections were held every six months, Miss Lake was also the eleventh, sixteenth and twenty-ninth president.

An enthusiastic committee has planned a very fine entertainment and general dancing will follow. On Sunday the class will be special guests at the morning service. Members are asked to meet in the church at 10:35.

News Of Old Andover

ONCE UPON A TIME, back in the dark ages, FIFTY YEARS AGO, the wiring was just about done for lighting in the Town hall, and townspeople were congratulating themselves that soon oil lamps would be entirely done away with. It was planned to have over thirty incandescent lights, arranged in a cluster of three over each window and on the sides of the stage. M. J. Daly thought up a way of simplifying transportation orders by keeping a box in J. H. Chandler's store where orders could be left for depot carriages.

In those days Phillips and Bowdoin used to have some pretty exciting tussles on the football field and a picked eleven started for Portland where about 800 people witnessed their defeat before the super strength of the college team. Andover played with skill, however, and the score (12-0) at the end of the first half remained throughout the rest of the game.

Two local weddings took place at that time when Rudolphus W. Walker and Miss Elizabeth Stone were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stone, Sutton street, fifty years ago on a Wednesday. Fred Newcomb Manning, young son of Mrs. E. G. Manning of this town, and Miss Amy Caroline Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Johnson of Nahant, were married Tuesday evening at a very fashionable wedding in Nahant.

If any employee of the Ballardvale mills went turkeyless in those gracious days it was not the fault of their employees as Miss Bradlee caused to have distributed among them an even half ton of turkey.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO they used to call them "silent policemen" and one was on duty at the junction of Main and Essex streets for the guidance of motor and horse-drawn vehicles. Time has cut down the horse-drawn traffic that they direct and slang has changed their name to "dummies" but they're still in use. George Brown of Ballardvale who had played on the Punchard team for three years, was elected captain for the 1916 season. Blanchard Ralph, then a student at Dartmouth, was spending the Thanksgiving recess at his home. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Curtis of Park street announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Melissa Curtis, to Roy Dearborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lauren F. Dearborn of Elm street. Mr. and Mrs. George M. Carter also announced the engagement of their daughter, Lucy Shattuck, to Edwin E. Bryant of Poland, Me.

It was TEN YEARS AGO that the trustees of Memorial Hall Library engaged Miss Evelyn R. Robinson to take charge of the junior room and they have been glad ever since. Miss Mary G. Palley, then a student at Boston University, was elected by her classmates as photograph editor of the University annual.

It brings consolation to remember Andover's 20-16 victory over Exeter ten years ago. It emphasized the value of Gene Tunney's exhortation at the mass meeting before the game when the former champion pugilist stressed the need of courage and determination to win against odds. The players revealed just those characteristics during the game.

ABBOT ACTIVITIES

The annual Fall Field Day which was postponed from last Saturday was finally held on Tuesday afternoon in the midst of much ceremony and excitement, under a canopy of the first blue sky which has been enjoyed for many a day. In the tennis singles Mary Bertuccio, of Springfield, Griffin, defeated her Gargoyle opponent, Nancy Eccles of Andover, with a score of 6-2, 6-2. The Gargoyles won one tournament of doubles with a 7-5, 7-5 score; the Griffins the other with a 6-4, 6-4 score. In this match Joan Waugh of Andover substituted for Ann Taylor. With

"Lister," the giraffe mascot of the Gargoyle team, and "Gus Griffin," the rival mascot, leading the grand march, the entire school paraded to the hockey field at 3:00 p. m. for the final game between the two first teams.

Other local team members were Margaret Little and Helen Stott for the Gargoyles, and Charlotte Eaton for the Griffins.

Contrary to all predictions, the Gargoyles crashed to victory with a 2-0 score. The game was hard-fought and well-played throughout, with excellent team work displayed on both sides. The fall sports program closed with a formal tea at the school on Wednesday when Miss Hearsey and Julie Nelson, president of the Abbot Athletic association, presented the awards for the first third of the year of sport. The varsity hockey team was announced with the following winners: Mills, Lehmann, Waterhouse, Menschik, Williams, White, Lytle, Nelson, Zeitung, Haynes and Rathbone.

BRIGGS-ALLEN NOTES

Mrs. John Bolten was hostess to the older group of children of the Briggs-Allen school on Wednesday. She, with the teachers, Mrs. Rowe and Miss Marland, took the group to the Bolta Rubber company in Lawrence. John Bolten presented each one with a coat hanger made from acetate, glasses and combs. The trip was of educational value as well as much fun.

Plans are being made for the school to give Thanksgiving dinners to families whose names are suggested by the local Red Cross. Mrs. Briggs sent out dinners from the school in 1908 and the mothers of the first group of girls continue to help.

FICTION CHARACTERS But Not Fictitious

Not Cutshamache and his tribe back to collect some more overcoats on the price of Andover, but Lewis and Clark (Robert McDonald and John Neale) guided by Sacagawea (Jane Butler) creeping their way through Memorial hall last night to show the members of Central P. T. A. and their many guests how real are the people met in Books. The three characters are shown above with two Indians (John Erving and James Coleman) straight from the pages of Cooper's "Last of the Mohicans."

The Goldsmith library club of Punchard presented the parade of book characters with Glenna Draper reading and Mina Manthorn of the Girls' band announcing each entrance on her bugle. Gladys LeFebvre and Fred Teichert made a very cute Hansel and Gretel as they clumped around the room in their honest-to-goodness wooden shoes, and Donald Haigh was unmistakably Ichabod Crane. Other high school students in costume were: Constance Swenson, Glenna Markert, Helen Gahn, Edward McFarlane, Burton Batcheller, Lillian Lovely, Marguerite Surette, Jean Farnsworth, Elizabeth Yeaton, Gertrude Batchelder, Gladys Martinson, Lois Rollins, Kathryn McCarthy, Everelda Collins, Evelyn Anderson, Donald Haigh, Cathryn O'Riordan, Kathleen Quill, Lois Henderson, Jean Gilfoy, Ralph Bruenell, Roger Zeigler, Billy Morgan, Merle Drouin, Janice Driscoll, Theresa Lefebvre, Edna Koza, Gordon Cannon, Paul Hood and Eleanor Coon. Miss Lillian Fox was in charge.

The program opened with a panel discussion "Good Books—Good Friends," by Junior high school students, which included interesting reviews and impersonations, stressing the importance of books. The poise of the young speakers and their convincing manner spoke well for their own interest in reading and book selection.

Miss Miriam Putnam also spoke on suggestions for the teen age group and Miss Evelyn Robinson, by her readings and descriptions, showed what interested the young juveniles. In fact, she interested also the adult audience with her poem about that flapping bird, Maizle, who went vacationing down south leaving Nanton, the elephant to sit on her nest. in reading and book selection.

Miss Miriam Putnam also spoke on suggestions for the teen age group and Miss Evelyn Robinson, by her readings and descriptions, showed what interested the young juveniles. In fact, she interested also the adult audience with her poem about that slipshod bird, Malzie, who went vacationing down south leaving Norton, the elephant to sit on her nest.
Parents realize that the children were on their own the afternoon.

Fourth Time Never Fails?

"Well, we've been down there three times already this year; maybe the fourth try will succeed." With a shrug of the shoulders a group of Andover residents again answered the call of the Department of Public Utilities for a hearing Tuesday. Something definite should come from it this time, however, for although the commission didn't and couldn't hand down a decision immediately, it did agree to go over the entire situation with Judge Chandler, representing the men interested in eliminating the five cent toll charge between Andover and Lawrence.

The Judge, as many know to their sorrow, is pretty adept at getting the whole story out of somebody, and chances are he won't be closeted long with the commission before he'll know pretty well what's what. And if that isn't the what that the group of local men want it to be, the Judge will present a formal petition asking abolition of the five cent toll.
Then something will have to be done, one way or the other.

DEATHS

As the year 1939 waned, one of Andover's respected citizens, Thomas Farnsworth, passed away.
Last Thursday less than a year after her husband's death, Mrs. Alice Farnsworth died at her home, 149 Elm street. Alice Jackson was born in England 79 years ago; Andover had her as a resident for the past 24 years.

Bereaved for the second time within a year were two daughters, Miss Marion Farnsworth of the Andover National Bank and Mrs. H. W. Hilberg of Rockford, Ill.; and three sons, James of Andover, Albert of Worcester, and Thomas of Detroit. James Jackson of Orange is the only brother surviving.
Rev. William E. Arnold of Lawrence's Grace church conducted services Saturday at Christ church.

Two years ago Mrs. Nancy Jane Loomis came here to reside with her son, Frederick E. Newton, then retiring from the academy faculty. Sunday
she passed away at the Andover Convalescent home, leaving Mr. Newton as her sole survivor.
Rev. Mr. Baldwin of the academy conducted services Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Laura Foster Ward, well-known resident of West Andover, had been able to be around her house as usual following a recent period of failing health but late Sunday night death cut short a life that had largely been devoted to her home, the West church and the Grange. She was born in North Andover 67 years ago, but had lived here 47 years.

Mrs. James Marshall of Chicopee Falls, Mrs. Russell Foster of Andover, and Chester Ward of Cumberland, Me., are surviving children, and there is a brother, Wallace of Creston, Washington.

Wednesday afternoon Rev. Donald Savage and Rev. Newman Matthews conducted services at the West Parish church, burial following in the church cemetery.

Wednesday night Mrs. Lisle Arnold of 17 Highland road died at the Lawrence General hospital after an operation. Mrs. Irene Collins of New York city, a daughter, survives, as do two sisters, Mrs.
George Busse and Mrs. Peter Cunningham.

MONEY AND FOOD NEEDED FOR THANKSGIVING BASKETS

As a final plea, the Red Cross Nursing Committee urgently wishes the generous cooperation of Andover Townspeople in caring for the many appeals that have come in from our less fortunate neighbors. Through our desire to share, they will receive a Thanksgiving basket.

Donations of fresh fruits and vegetables are particularly needed as are canned goods. These articles may be left at the South Congregational Church on Monday morning, November 25th, or they will be called for if the donors will contact Mrs. Roscoe E. Dake, Hidden Field.

Contributions of money are particularly needed for the purchase of fresh meats and other perishable foods as Red Cross funds are not available for this work. Please send your checks at once to Mr. Philip Ripley, 7 Abbot Street.

All organizations or individuals sending baskets to needy families, are asked to call Mrs. Roscoe Dake, telephone 1455-W to avoid duplication.

You Aliens Better Hurry

There are about 100 Andover aliens who had better do something quickly about conforming with the registration law or else face the possibility of paying a thousand dollar fine or spending six months in jail, or both. The four-month period provided by Congress for the registration of aliens is now nearing its close, and those who have not registered by the end of that period will be treated by the Department of Justice as common criminals.

Through yesterday 525 had registered in Andover, but it is estimated that there are over 600 aliens in town. The local post office has to handle this registration, and certainly with the Christmas rush ahead all aliens who have not registered should do so immediately.

The Department of Justice blames the non-registration of the 800,000 or so non-citizens on (1) ignorance of the law; (2) negligence; (3) reluctance or unwillingness to comply with the law. Without attempting to excuse the delinquent aliens in any respect, we can't help but feel that Congress did not exercise its best judgment when it made the arrangements as it did. On October 16th, practically every man in the United States between the ages of 21 and 35 no matter where in the country they were, went to a designated place and registered. One day was given for that process of registering far more men than there are aliens in these United States, and yet Congress decided that it should take four months to register three and a half million aliens. Volunteers all over the nation aided in the draft registration; the Immigration service hired people to come in and work on the alien registration. Of course the registration process is lengthier for aliens, since fingerprinting, etc., has to be done, but certainly there would seem to be no need of taking four months for the task. They could have assigned one day for an initial registration, just as they did in the draft. Then appointments could have been made for definite times with each alien, and the whole thing

Local Artists Exhibit At John-Esther Gallery

Mollie Darling, a portrait by Frances Dalton to be on exhibit at the John Esther gallery during National Art Week, November 25 to December 1, embodies in the young girl's expression all the untried sweetness and content so rarely found today. Perhaps that is why Mollie's softly draped costume, lace gloves, streamered straw hat and dainty parasol are also so definitely un-modern. Nothing breaks the relaxed peace of the painting. Even the background stretches interminably. It is a relaxation just to look at it.

Mary Mills Hatch, new curator at the gallery, plans to establish the Abbot gallery more completely in the circle of Andover art life. This exhibit of "New England Painters" is the incipient expression of that policy and should be of special interest to local visitors. Together with a group of well-known New England painters, sponsored by the Grace Horn gallery, eight Andover painters are showing one or two examples of their oil paintings. Most of these artists have already held one man shows in Boston and New York and even in Paris and London, but this is the first time they have exhibited as a group. In recent years the town has attracted more and more artists and the John Esther show will prove how favorable is Andover's atmosphere to the cultivation of their marked talent.

Miss Hatch came to the local gallery this fall and has been making steady progress since her arrival. She is pictured above viewing Mollie the Darling's portrait with Harry Sutton whose studio is also in Andover.

Of the artists showing, who have already made a name for themselves locally, are Howard Coon, Harry Sutton and Frances Dalton. Harry Sutton's portrait of "Benjamin Cole, Jr." is a good example of his brilliant style of painting, while Miss Dalton's beautifully finished portraits of children, softened by such poetic understanding, are illustrated by the above "Mollie Darling" and by "Christine Maynard."

Howard Coon, whose work decorates Memorial Hall library, is showing a scene of the New England coast; Clare Hayes, an Andover landscape.

Two lively still life paintings are shown by Alica Atkinson and Patrick Morgan. Morgan, the new assistant at Addison gallery, is showing a gaily colored abstract composition, while Alica Atkinson bends freshly painted flowers into a delightfully formal arrangement.

Maud Morgan's portrait of a contemplative elderly woman is a beautiful study in tone contrasts, while Mary Mills Hatch's portrait of a young man is an able presentation of character augmented by strong design.

Portraiture seems to be the most notable achievement of the Andover group, but with the still life and landscapes by out-of-town artists, there are no weak spots in the show. It is a very inspiring exhibition.

The Gallery is open to the public on weekdays from 10:00 to 4:30 and on Sundays from 2:30 to 4:30.

could have been cleaned up in one month. As it is, the long period allowed for registration has tended to give aliens the thought common to all of us: that of leaving things until the very last moment.

Nothing to Worry About

If state law allowed an unlimited number of licenses and if it made it mandatory upon the selectmen to give licenses to all who applied, you'd soon be able to stop in every other store in Andover for a drink.

But state law doesn't. There is a quota, one restaurant license for every 1,000 people or fraction thereof in the town. This year Andover's population has risen into the next bracket, and the quota is up one.

But again if there were no quota: Lincoln Pierce Vaughan, doing business as the Essex cafe, would have a license at 15 Essex street, across from Greeley's market; Howard Johnson's down on South Main street would be able to serve liquor; Jimmy Heifetz, who lost his license two years ago when the first question on the ballot met defeat, would be selling all liquors or just wine and malt beverages in the old W. H. Welch plumbing shop in Post Office avenue; and what a fuss there'd be to decide whether Walter J. Morrissey should open up "The Retreat" or "Walt's" and Doug Hutcheson and Clarence White should open up "The Blue and White Cafe," both at 6 Park street, formerly a printing plant and pre-formerly a market.

As it is, however, on December 2 the selectmen are holding hearings to determine who shall get licenses. Into the hopper this year went most of the present restaurant light liquor license holders, sacrificing their status quo preference by applying for a full license. The selectmen have to pick out twelve of them.

Some of our local citizens are going to get all excited, fearful that the town will be flooded with drinking establishments. But somehow, we don't feel that there's any cause to worry. We know the selectmen of the Town of Andover; we know that their interest in the town and its well-being and its reputation is just as keen, keener perhaps than that of the average citizen. The decision couldn't be placed in better hands.

One of the most colorful occasions in Andover's patriotic-social life was the annual British War Veterans' military ball, held last Friday in the Memorial gymnasium. ideas and standards of European civilization from the Greeks to the present day. Donald Leith will take up "Viewpoints on Education" in which he will discuss many of the present problems of education.

Jack Barss's course on "Putting Household Slaves to Work" should do much to step up the efficiency of Andover homes. "Especially welcome," the course book says, "are women who have heretofore despaired of ever understanding machinery." Jack will run practically the whole gamut of household appliances and machines, apparently from the electric toaster to the automobile. And it's not from "book larnin'" alone that Jack derives his subject: he's married.

In the field of literature Allan Cook will read from short stories, drama, essay, poetry and biography, with critical and interpretative comment. Eight faculty members plus Punchard high school's Nathan Hamblin will give the course on Great Books. Emory Basford will delve into poetry for the unpoetical, designed to lift you out of your apathy if any to poetry.

A companion course to Great Books is Whit Clark's Great Symphonies. The other music course comprises a concert series—and never did you get so many concerts for so little money! Trios, string quartets, two pianos, organ and piano, the Wakefield brass ensemble, Federal music project chorus and the Federal music project symphony—nine concerts for the price of the course—one dollar!

Those who feel that their English "ain't up to snuff," whether it's just that they didn't learn what they were supposed to when in school or whether they didn't have enough schooling to learn much of good English, will be interested in "A Workshop in English" given by Scott Paradise, Chester Cochran, R. I. W. Westgate and the working boss himself, Al Blackmer. One of Al's oft-expressed worries about the limited education seem a bit afraid to come to the courses—and Al wants more of that group.

Always popular are the Effective Speaking courses, with Pen Hallowell and Steve Whitney taking care of beginners and Roger Higgins taking care of Effective Speaking I graduates and others with some experience.

Art again will occupy a prominent place, with Bart Hayes and Dan Tower handling the beginners in a course that will combine appreciation with some experimental work. Pat Morgan, an experienced painter, will give the course in studio art, which provides instruction and practice in drawing, painting, etching or modeling with clay. Anybody who wants to do rapid sketching of a moving model will find still another course on that subject. Ken Minard will give two courses on photography, and two public school teachers, Carl Gahan and Emil Keiler, will give a course on metal, leather and woodworking.

In an entirely different field Rowena Rhodes of Abbot will repeat her course on recreation for women through the modern dance, and Frank Di Clementi will supervise the grunting in the course on exercise for health, men only. Harold Phinney, local business man, will give a course on Square Dancing.

WHERE TO GO

The first public appearance of the Andover Community orchestra will be held Friday evening, December 6 in Memorial auditorium. Founded in 1939 for the purpose of developing interest in orchestral music, the group has been progressing rapidly under the conductorship of George Brown, and last year they gave a small concert at Brooks school to which a few close friends of the members were invited. But the concert in December is open to the public.

The program which begins at 8:00 will include such selections as Handel's "Concerto Grosso in C Major (No. 7)," Rameau's "Air de Ballet" from the Opera "Dardanus" and Gounod's "Ballet Movements" from "Faust."

Andover's musical projects have always proven to be deserving of patronage by music appreciators, and the Community Orchestra is no exception. A good date for your calendar and no charge for admission.

Another good supper with homemade chicken pie as the main dish will be served at the Square and Compass club Saturday night, November 23, from 5:30 to 6:30. William Hatch is chairman of the large committee which is working hard to make sure that no one will leave the hall the least bit hungry, Saturday.

In the way of professional music, we have the Swedish contralto of the Metropolitan Opera, Kerstin Thorborg, coming to George Washington hall tomorrow night on the same program which she will present at Boston symphony, Sunday. Moses Smith, critic of the Boston Evening Transcript, calls her "as rare a personality in the concert hall as in opera. Something very close to genius," and we believe him when we review her past experiences. Madame Thorborg was born in Dalekalia in Northern Sweden where her father was a newspaper editor. Both her parents had a keen layman's appreciation of music and her father, himself, had an excellent baritone voice. So it was natural that when they discovered that their daughter showed vocal promise, they immediately engaged an instructor for her. Later she went to the operatic school of the Stockholm Royal Opera, one of three chosen from 1200 applicants.

After her debut at the Stockholm Royal Opera, the talented contralto continued to sing stellar roles, and after four years of operatic and concert singing in Sweden, she went to the Prague Opera and later to the Berlin Staatsoper and Stadtische Opera. Following a season at the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires, she was invited to join the Vienna Opera company where she sang for four seasons.

In the spring of 1936 Madame Thorborg made her first appearance at Covent Garden in London, creating such a sensation that the Metropolitan immediately invited her to join its forces that winter. Her first appearance in New York was in the role of Fricka in "Die Walkuere" on the opening night of the Metropolitan, December 21, 1936. She has since become one of the most valued members of the company, appearing in such widely varied roles as Klytemnestra in "Elektra," Orfeo in "Orfeo ed Euridice," Fricka in "Di Walkuere," Venus in "Tannhaeuser," Marina in "Boris Godounow."

We are very fortunate in having her appear in Andover. If you miss her concert, you'll be filled with regret for years to come.

There'll be lots of formals at the country club next month but none so gay as the semi-formal to be held December 7 by the Punchard Alumni association. The executive committee is stepping out from behind precedent just this once, to see if they can't get all you elusive alums to join together for one swell time. According to rumors, they're going to succeed.

Nothing like a formal in December, anyway, and when the subscription is only $1.50 a couple, there's nothing to keep you home. Plan to arrive early. Dancing from 8 to 12.

* * * *

The firemen are having their ball Thanksgiving eve at the Auditorium and their entertainment to precede the dancing sounds well worth saving from the flames. Florence Fleming, the mistress of ceremonies, is a charming young lady with many talents and will play the accordion, piano, sing and tell stories besides introducing Bart Gardner, the Gay Ninety instrumentalist; Potas and Folsom, famous comedy acrobatic team; the Camerons, mammoth magical act; the Darling sisters, singers and dancers; and Zellar and Wilburn, hat throwing comedians. It's a good date to make for next Wednesday night!

* * * *

It's nearly time for skiing, at least it feels cold enough first thing in the morning to don a parka and boots, so that it is a very auspicious time for Carroll Reed to take a trip to Andover to tell us a little about the fine arts of the unbalancing sport. He will speak before the Phillips Academy Outing club, December 4, at Peabody house, and the public is invited to attend. Ski movies will bring the Eastern slopes right down to Phillips street and a pair of woolen socks say you'll dash right home after the lecture to do the waxing job you've been planning to do all summer.

* * * *

Thirty football teams are a lot of teams to coach and it is quite fitting that Punchardites, and even non-alums, should get together and decide to have a banquet in celebration of Eugene V. Lovely's thirtieth season as high school coach, especially since the victory over Concord Tuesday, 20-12. It is also a unique affair in the annals of sports because it is not going to be stag! Ladies will be very welcome. Perhaps we have the Girls' band to thank for that, because when the committee were making the initial plans it was decided that they couldn't have a football banquet without the Girls' band. Consequently the bars are down and feminine cheerers will be as welcome as deeper-voiced rooters. Speeches, entertainment, movies and, of course, selections by the band is the program so far and a very good dinner.

* * * *

Tickets are now on sale for the Adventurers' triple-header program which will be held in the Auditorium, Tuesday evening, December 10. The best seats are going fast, so it would be a good idea to call 1421-R right away and have Mrs. Currier reserve you as many seats as your theatre party will need. Don't miss it whatever you do because "The Happy Journey," "Thank You, Doctor" and "Fumed Oak" are all too good to miss.

* * * *

St. Augustine's is having a turkey whist at the parochial school hall Monday night, sponsored by the sodalities of the parish. Not only will you have an evening's sport, but you'll stand a good chance of winning your Thanksgiving dinner.

* * * *

The British War Veterans' auxiliary have set the date of their annual minstrel show as December 13 and will present it in St. Augustine's school hall. Mrs. Hugh McLay is directing and Mrs. John Souter is the interlocutor.

* * * *

A dish fit for royalty will be served at the Christ church fair supper, December 5, from 5:30 to 7:00—turkey a la king. The fair itself will open at 2:00 with an entertainment at 4:30. Fairs are always fun and the women of Christ church promise that theirs will be particularly so.

Christmas shopping will be made easier and the answers to "What to buy friends with discriminating tastes" narrowed down to prints and drawings after a visit to the exhibition and sale in Addison Gallery from November 25 to December 30. National art week was the inspiration for this unusual exhibit which accomplished many other purposes as well. Interest in American art and in the work of local craftsmen will receive a new impetus by this new way of bringing local artistic work to the attention of the community. But most important of all, there will be no cases of visitors choosing lovely prints beyond the means of holiday-tightened pocketbooks as all articles exhibited are priced at $10.00 or under. Convenient too is the exchange plan which allows examples purchased during the sale to be exchanged, if the buyer wishes, before December 30, for another example of work by the same artist with any adjustment of price necessary. Don't puzzle any longer. You'll enjoy the exhibit and you'll get some brilliant ideas on Christmas shopping.

Her matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Andrew Jackson, who wore aqua moire taffeta with matching fitted jacket. Her accessories were gold and she carried gold pompoms. The bridegroom's brother, John Williams, was the best man.

Ferns and fall flowers decorated the home where a reception followed the ceremony. After a wedding trip to New York they will make their new home at 62 Haverhill street.
